

Bryant Family Reunion

North Myrtle Beach, SC
August 30 – September 1, 2013

Remembering Our Roots, Celebrating Our Heritage, and Building Our Future

The Family Root

Sam Bryant (1844 - 1918 and Mariah Bellamy Bryant (1849 - 1927)

Greetings Family,

The Bryant Family Reunion Committee would like to welcome you to the seventh family reunion. Our theme this year is "Cherishing the Bryant Family Legacy". We had a great time on the Carnival Sensation during our last reunion (2011) but it sure feels good to be back home in North Myrtle Beach. Whether you traveled from out of town or live in the local vicinity, we are delighted that you came! This weekend will provide you with the opportunity to connect with seldom-seen family members and also meet new ones. We have been working extremely hard over the past year to ensure that this reunion proves to be an exciting and memorable experience for you and your family.

Our family reunion provides an opportunity to reflect on the past, enjoy the present and be inspired for the future. This reunion is special because the first edition of the Bryant Family History Book is being released. Preserving the Bryant Family history is paramount to providing our future generations with a knowledge of who they are and what it took to get the family where it is today. The tour of the farm is the icing on the cake as it too reminds us of the luxuries that we sometime take for granted. As you read about Sam and Mariah and the latter generations, you should be encouraged to uphold the strong legacy that they have all left behind.

Thank you all for your support and cooperation. Without it, this reunion nor the history book would not have been possible. May God bless each and every one of you!

Bio – David C. Wilson

David C. Wilson is an electrical/electronics engineer, statistical practitioner, adjunct math professor, and family history researcher. He established Wilson Consulting Services, LLC in 2005. His organization provides training and consulting in statistical analysis, data analysis, mathematics education, and family history research.

His prior experience includes more than 30 years working primarily in the areas of quality and reliability engineering for IBM, General Electric, and Honeywell. While working at these corporations, he held mostly senior engineering and management positions. He retired from IBM and General Electric respectively.

His education and teaching experience include serving one year on IBM Faculty Loan Program, working as an adjunct professor for more than 25 years teaching engineering technology, mathematics, and statistics at various colleges and universities such as Dutchess Community College, Quinnipiac University, Sacred Heart University, and most recent, Horry Georgetown Technical College. In addition, he has many years of experience tutoring students in math and science, speaking to student groups about careers in engineering and related fields, and serving as a science fair judge.

Dave is a graduate of the former Chestnut Consolidated High School (CCHS), which was part of the Horry County School System in South Carolina until county schools desegregated in 1970, when the school became North Myrtle Beach High School. After serving three years in the U.S. Army Signal Corps, he subsequently earned bachelors and masters degrees in electrical engineering from City College of New York and Manhattan College (NY) respectively. He has received numerous awards for his work in industry and volunteer activities. Most recently, his focus has been on closing the performance gap between white and black students and K-12 mathematics education.

He has contributed to and written several CCHS Alumni Newsletters, made presentations at Alumni banquets, and provided advice and guidance to the alumni committee. In addition, Dave was instrumental in getting CCHS Historical Marker approved by the state and erected. He is the author of the wording on the marker. Furthermore, he has a substantial background in family history research and has authored several editions of his family history book.

He is married to Beverly Foster Wilson, who is a family nurse practitioner (FNP) for the Little River Medical Center. They have two adult sons, two daughters-in-law, and six grandchildren. His favorite pass time is reading, watching television programs crime stories recreated, history and science channels; and most important spending time with his grandchildren every chance he gets. Dave and Bev reside in the Conway, SC area.
