 Labor Day weekend-Saturday, September 5, 2020

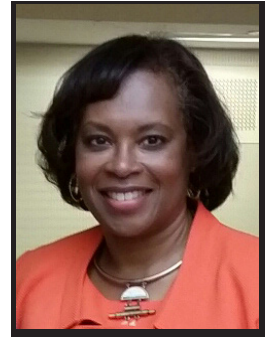

About 80 family & friends came to the reunion. It was outside, but we wore our masks to be safe. We ate, talked, took photos, the kids played in the bouncy house, we honored our loved ones with our tradition, and we won prizes playing bingo!

Five, or maybe, ten years from now, people will still be talking about everything that happened in 2020. It's been one of the most unusual, chaotic, emotionally draining, yet inspiring, life changing years. When people look back on this year, many questions will be asked but the one thing I hope you will always remember is this... FAMILY MATTERS! Having a rock solid relationship built on family love is a great way to beat any obstacle. This year, we did not let COVID beat us down. With careful planning and preparation, our family enjoyed spending time with each other over Labor Day weekend on Saturday, September 5 for a cookout at Lancaster County Central Park in Lancaster, PA. Eighty family members and close friends enjoyed a comfortable, physically-distanced event. Everyone had their masks, we took temperatures, and we spaced out. The best thing is WE HAD FUN. We ate, we played, there was great music, lots of laughter, and plenty of storytelling. And the fried fish, hamburgers, hot dogs, chicken, Spanish rice, baked beans, macaroni salad, green beans, jellystack cake, banana pudding and all the other food was delicious and plentiful. There was a closely monitored bounce house for kids and an outdoor obstacle course for kids and adults that many enjoyed. Family awards were given and we had at least 18 first timers attend our family event.

A BIG THANK YOU to everyone who attended and practiced safe techniques to ensure everyone remained well. It was a total team effort.

Are you ready for 2021? Mark your calendars for July 29-Aug 1, 2021 for Buffalo Niagara, NY Two areas in one reunion. The beauty of the Falls, the joy of Freedom Crossing, the history of Ferry St., Michigan Avenue and the music on Broadway, the games of chance at Seneca Casino, and the fellowship of family and friends. Hope to see you there!

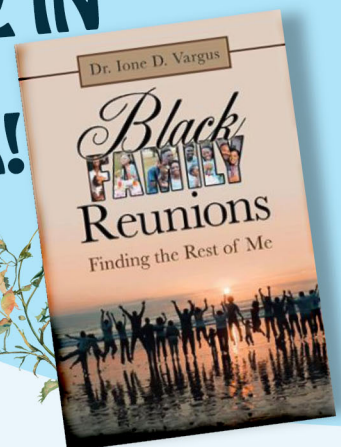

Until next time...

Love, Peace, & Blessings,
Beth

BLINDSIDED BY PA. LAW, 101-YEAR-OLD MANAGES TO CAST ABSENTEE BALLOT IN-PERSON

Bernice Chilton wearing her 'I voted' sticker

Bernice Chilton is a member of the Ransom-Sease family, residing in York, PA. This story by Jasmine Vaughn-Hall was printed in the York Daily Record on October 30, 2020.

Bernice Chilton has never missed her chance to vote — and she wasn't about to stop now.

Grasping her walker, the 101-year-old stood at the bottom of a flight of white stone steps at the old courthouse Tuesday. Chilton would make that trek.

Even if she ached.

She's developed arthritis, which makes her legs and hands sore. She fractured her arm in a fall a few weeks ago. Nonetheless, she didn't intend to let that keep her from voting. For her sake, though, her caretaker and granddaughter, Ceita Walker, had opted to get Chilton an absentee ballot for the 2020 election. They usually vote together at a center near their home.

Walker took the ballots with her to work because she planned to put them in York

County's only drop box at the old courthouse downtown. This is the first year that Pennsylvania has allowed early voting. Walker was a little nervous about leaving the ballots in her car, fearing someone might try to break in if they saw them. After work, she headed to the drop box and put her ballot in.

Before she could add her grandmother's ballot, someone stopped her. Walker was told that Chilton would have to be present for her to cast her vote — even though her grandmother could hardly walk. According to Pennsylvania law, "voters must return their own ballots. The only exceptions to this are for voters with a disability who have designated someone in writing to deliver their ballot." Fearful over reports of ballots being pulled out of the mail and dumped elsewhere, Walker didn't want to chance it. She was going to get her grandmother.

"I really wanted to vote," Chilton said. "Never have [I] missed voting."

In short order, Chilton stood with her granddaughter in the face of the only thing standing between her and her vote: a flight of stairs. Walker didn't see a ramp when they approached the building.

It didn't matter.

"If she couldn't make it up, I would have asked somebody to help me," Walker said. "She could have got on my back. I didn't care. She was gonna cast her ballot because that's what she wanted to do."

Chilton was exhausted afterward, but she made it up those steps.

Her granddaughter took a picture of Chilton displaying her "I Voted" sticker on the right side of her off-white jacket and shared it on social media, telling people they have "no excuse" for not getting out to vote.

A CENTURY OF STANDING HER GROUND

Chilton has stood her ground for as long as she can remember.

As a preteen in York, she heard a student call the only other Black person in the room the n-word. So she smacked the name-caller.

"I was never treated like some people say they were. I wouldn't let them do it," Chilton said, a mindset she said allowed her to evade direct discrimination and harassment because of her race.

She's always voted — though the specifics of that first election are a bit hazy. She does, however, know who her favorite president is. The deep thought sends her right hand under her chin as she leans back into her plushy red sofa chair in the living room.

Was it Clinton? No, no. It was Kennedy. Her realization is quickly followed by a schoolgirl giggle. "To me, [he] was a good president for Black people," she said.

Walker thinks Chilton is an inspiration for staying committed to voting in a country that didn't always allow her to. The centenarian humbly refuses the praise, reassuring that she is who she is with or without the approval of others. And before reverting to a conversation where she's less of the focus, she leans forward and offers a final thought.

"I think you should vote," she says, "and that's for sure."

“FAMILY MATTERS”

This was the theme for our family reunion. This statement is of a great truth. Family matters to God and He has placed this great truth into the hearts of those who seek Him, who honor Him, and who desire to walk in His way.

In His Word, the book of Chronicles records the genealogies which trace back to Adam. These records served to remind those returning and entering into the family about the promises (land) and duties and blessings connected to tribal ancestry.

Psalm 68:6 says God setteth the solitary in families: He brings out those which are bound with chains: but the rebellious dwell in a dry land. Solitary in this case can mean “an anchorite”- someone (a family) who for religious reasons withdraws from secular society (the norm) so as to be able to lead a prayer oriented or spiritually focused life (the way God desires).

In I Samuel and in Psalms, God made barren women to give birth and to keep house being a joyful mother of children. Examples of God blessing those who are brought out of their hard situations.

My prayer for our Family is as Paul’s prayer was for the Ephesians: 3:14-19

14 For this cause I bow my knees unto the Father of our

Lord Jesus Christ,

15 of whom the whole family of heaven and earth is named,

16 That He would grant you, according to His riches in glory, to be strengthened with might by His Spirit in the inner man;

17 That Christ may dwell in your hearts by faith; that you being rooted and grounded in love;

18 May be able to comprehend with all saints what is the breadth, and length, and depth, and height;

19 And to know the love of Christ, which passes knowledge, that you may be filled with the fullness of God.

Family let us continue to hold fast to this truth that “Family Matters” in obedience to God’s plan and we will continue to be a blessed family.

Let us pray for the return of the Princes in our family-so the houses of their father’s increase greatly.

Amen

 Chaplain for the National Ransom-Sease Family Reunion Group 2020
